Thursday P. M.
30 October, 1913.

Mommy dear,
To-day has been an exciting one here for the Sophomores and Juniors. This morning the Juniors hung a big placard up in College Hall center challenging the Sophomores to be present at their Foursic Burning to be between 4:15 and 9:30 P. M. to-day. They have been so excited - going without meals and everything. I have been going to classes and studying, though I did have some interesting news - my friend in Columbia isn't engaged any more. He is the one with the money about whom I have spoken; Evelyn introduced him to me. She told me about it this afternoon, she said she didn't think it would last long, as his parents made him do it. He doesn't interest me much, though.

How I would like to drop in again and see you like I did last week! We said a lot in those few minutes, didn't we? Maybe I can do it again some time. I think about you so much, you are such a dear Mommy and I love you.

Goodnight - with a hug
and kisses, from your own Jennie.
